DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a) because they fail to show the descriptions of the labels in Figure 1 as described in the specification. Any structural detail that is essential for a proper understanding of the disclosed invention should be shown in the drawing. MPEP § 608.02(d). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

3. Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by Matthews (US Patent Number 4,757,525).

Art Unit: 2645

Regarding claims 1, 9 and 10, Matthew discloses a electronic communication system, a terminal for use in the telecommunication system and a method that consist of a switch (VMS 10, VCA 14 and CO 22) and a memory (data storage subsystem 64) for storing at least one message originating from a first terminal and destined for a second terminal (column 7, line 66 and column 8 line 1), where the second terminal (user) consist of a generator for generating a specific signal ("call") to be sent to the switch (column 40, lines 42-44) and defining a user (identification code) of the second terminal being interested in at least one specific message (column 40, lines 55-57), with the switch consisting of a detector for detecting a specific signal (column 40, line 57-59) and consisting of a processor (call processor subsystem 62a-62c) for response to detecting ordering the memory to generate at least one specific message to be sent to the second terminal (Figure 15 box 722).

Regarding claim 5, Matthew discloses a switch (VMS 10, VCA 14 and CO 22) for use in a telecommunication consisting of a switch (VMS 10, VCA 14 and CO 22) and a memory (data storage subsystem 64) for storing at least one message originating from a first terminal and destined for a second terminal (column 7, line 66 and column 8 line 1), where the switch consisting of a detector for detecting a specific signal ("call", column 40, lines 42-44) originating from the second terminal (user) and defining a user of the second terminal being interested in at least one specific message(column 40, lines 55-57), and consisting of a processor (call processor subsystem 62a-62c) for response to detecting ordering the memory to generate at least one specific message to be sent to the second terminal (Figure 15 box 722).

Regarding claims 2 and 6, Matthews further discloses an electronic communication system that consist of a destination signal defining a destination of the first terminal and/or consisting of a predefined specific code (column 39, lines 24-27).

Regarding claims 3 and 7, Matthews further discloses the first terminal consisting of a generator for generating an indication signal to be sent to the switch (column 27, lines 63-65) and defining at least one message originating from a user of the first terminal being a specific message (column 30, lines 33-36), with the switch consisting of a detector for detecting the indication signal (column 27, lines 65-67).

Regarding claim 4 and 8, Matthews further discloses the indication signal consist of a destination signal (short progress tone) defining a destination of the second terminal (addresses, column 30, lines 23-24) and/or consisting of a predefined indication code (end of address indicator, column 30, lines 24-26).
